At Home in Leonardtown featuring . . .

The Clark Farm aka Clark's Rest

After years of idly awaiting a makeover, the former Clark Farm property on Point Lookout Road is now fully engaged in transitioning from grassy pastures to a neotraditional style community development. In 2006 this once viable farm was purchased by Marrick Homes. The land is now occupied by heavy earthmoving equipment signaling the launch of this much anticipated project. The 178-acre development will be called "Clark's Rest" and is proposed to contain 205 single family homes and 130 townhouse units over a span of 8 to 10 years. The first phase of development is currently underway.

There is a unique history about this property within Leonardtown. Patented as "Clarke's Rest" on August 21, 1674 by Edward Clarke, the estate encompassed 300 acres. (It's interesting to note that 100 acres of "Clarke's Rest" was sold to Richard Brown in 1676 and this particular tract, known today as the "Hayden Farm" property, is slated as the site for Leonardtown's new elementary school.) George Howell Leigh purchased "Clarke's Rest" in 1787. He gave the estate to his son and heir John Leigh in 1797 who renamed it "Woodbury". Subsequently, ownership of the property changed hands a number of times over the years. Then in 1956 the property was sold by Roger Richardson to Leonardtown resident George Clark, Jr. When conveyed to Clark, the property was called "Chestnut Hill Farm" symbolizing the beautiful chestnut trees that graced the estate before the chestnut blight wrought widespread devastation in the first half of the 20th century. The Clark family retained the "Chestnut Hill" name for a time but upon encountering an old map and learning that the estate was once part of the original "Clarke's Rest" plantation, felt it was only fitting to rename it "Clark's Rest". And so it was.

The two-story manor home, once curtained by large chestnut trees, was now framed by colorful maple and oak trees as it sat atop the gentle knoll overlooking the land. For many travelers, this bucolic setting was a landmark that their entrance "into Town" was just around the corner. The home, listed on the inventory for state historic sites by the Maryland Historical Trust, was demolished in 2008.

The original two-story manor home, built circa 1852, consisted of only the middle section. The East wing was added in 1872 and the west wing was added in 1924.

The Clarks were well-known in Leonardtown for their ownership and operation of the Leonardtown Dairy. The dairy opened in 1945 on Pope Street and at that time the Clarks lived on Lawrence Avenue, just across from the dairy location. The dairy was a successful business that purchased milk from local cattle farms for pasteurizing, processing and bottling. Hosts of dairy products, including milk, ice cream, and cheese were then delivered throughout the tri-county area including the Cary Ice Cream Plant at the bottom of Leonardtown Wharf Hill, local schools, grocery stores, hospitals, nursing centers, the Navy Base and rural route customers. When glass bottles were switched to cardboard containers, every milk carton bore the slogan "Support Your Local Business".

But life changed with the move to the farm in 1956. Now the Clark family was actually raising dairy cattle for milking on their own farm while continuing to import milk from other farms to the Leonardtown Dairy. A modern, state-of-the-art milking facility

Mayor's Message

While defining my priorities over the last year, I continue to stress the importance of Tudor Hall Farm and the Leonardtown Wharf projects to the future success of the Town. We recently worked through a visioning process, including public hearings, for the future development of those projects to ensure the connectivity to the existing town infrastructure and public access for all Leonardtown residents to these great assets.

The plan looks at adding a restaurant and a small amount of retail shops at Leonardtown Wharf. We will be putting out a Request for Proposals in the next couple of months to move this project forward.

As for the Tudor Hall Farm we have shown the continued gridding of the existing streets with higher density housing within walking distance to the downtown. We also show the retail expansion of the existing downtown core. We envision a small hotel and conference center that capitalizes on the scenic waterfront and many passive recreational opportunities for the residents of Leonardtown and St. Mary's County. This vision plan will give us a starting point for discussion when a developer shows an interest in the property; helping to ensure that the quality of life currently enjoyed by our residents will continue for many years to come.

Leonardtown Celebrates "First Fridays"

Leonardtown First Fridays are exciting! Visit your favorite shops and eateries or try a new experience. Live music, food samplings, wine tastings, art exhibits, hand-crafted items and a variety of specials can be found at participating retailers located in downtown Leonardtown, the Leonardtown Arts Center, Breton Marketplace, the Maryland Antiques Center Complex, and the Port of Leonardtown Winery. Look for Info Share on the Square this spring and summer when various retailers housed outside of the Town Square will setup on the Square and tell you about their specialties.

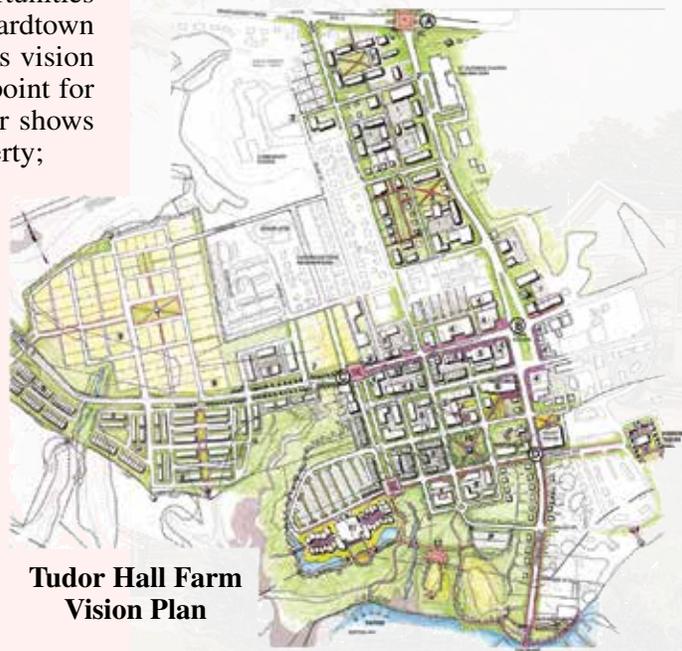

We would like to share a few comments received during February's "I Love Leonardtown" campaign:

"I love Leonardtown. Despite the growth that surrounds us, Leonardtown still has the small town feeling."

"Love all the unique stores!"
"I love being able to walk anywhere in town & feeling safe...I love saying Hi to people and getting a Hi back...Nothing can replace the small town feel. Go Leonardtown!"

Keep an eye on the County Times or visit the First Friday website at leonardtownfirstfridays.com to see what's happening. Oftentimes, you will find the First Friday Planning Committee organizing charity drives such as care packages for our Troops, Breast Cancer Walk team donations, and collection boxes for Hope Phones.

Annual Veterans Day Parade

As the only officially designated Regional Site for the Celebration of Veterans Day in Maryland, Leonardtown was alive with patriotism during the 2012 St. Mary's County Veterans Day Parade. Thousands of spectators lined the streets to cheer for our service men and women, marching bands, scouts, colorful floats, classic cars, horses and others. Edward Chow, Veterans Affairs Secretary for Maryland, Captain Ted Mills, Commanding Officer of the Patuxent River Naval Air Station and other local dignitaries spoke during the memorial ceremony before laying wreaths on the Memorial Monuments. Leonardtown

Elementary School students Drew Weller, Riley Ferguson, Taylor Vaughn, and Rosemary Wild also recited their winning essays titled "What Veterans Day Means to Me". Thanks to all the many supporters and volunteers who make this event to honor our Veteran a success each and every year!

Christmas on the Square & Annual Tree Lighting

The unseasonably warm temperatures enticed a record crowd to come out and enjoy an exciting evening of holiday music and entertainment during Leonardtown's Christmas Tree Lighting event in the Town Square on Friday, November 23rd. The Town appreciates the many performers and volunteers, the St. Mary's County Sheriff's Department, the Leonardtown Business Association and the Leonardtown Volunteer Fire Department for their commitment in ensuring the success of this grand holiday event!

LVRSA Christmas Festival

Beautifully decorated Christmas trees, wreaths, train displays and seasonal music captivated all who visited the Leonardtown Volunteer Rescue Squad Auxiliary's "Christmas Festival" held on November 23rd in the Winegardner Auto Showroom.

Shop Maryland Campaign

State Comptroller Peter Franchot visited the Leonardtown Square on December 10th as part of his Shop Maryland Campaign. Leonardtown was proud to showcase local businesses while the Comptroller enjoyed strolling around the Town Square, touring the Leonardtown Arts Center and visiting the Fuzzy Farmer's Market, Fenwick Street Used Books and Music, and The Hair Company.

Comptroller Franchot, accompanied by Mayor Burris, visits with Jackie Bailey, owner of the award-winning salon, The Hair Company.

Residents of Newtowne Village Are Community-Oriented

Residents of New Towne Village Apartments in Leonardtown enjoy giving back to their community. Thanks to Gail Austin, Jean Buckler, Anna B. Copsey, Pat Gardiner, Peggy Johnston, Sally Koenig, Mary Lender, Matt Mattingly, and Sara Jo Morgan who stuffed 500 Santa giveaway bags for children attending the Town's "Christmas on the Square" and "Santa on the Square" events.

In January, the residents collected $250 which they donated to ACTS in appreciation of the group's mission of loaning medical equipment to those in need. To make a donation or inquire about the services of ACTS (A Community That Shares) call 301-769-4199.

Mayor Dan Burris enjoyed meeting with the residents in February and updating them on various projects, events and happenings in Leonardtown.

Santa & Mrs. Claus in the Square

Over 200 children, some with wish-lists in hand, were delighted to visit Santa and Mrs. Claus in the Town Square on Saturday, December 15th. After hearing from all the children, Santa and Mrs. Claus enjoyed visiting several businesses around the Town Square.

Geocache Trail Includes Leonardtown

Leonardtown is one of 49 Maryland sites participating in the Maryland Municipal League's newest geocache trail launched in January. This free interactive treasure hunt is expected to boost tourism and promote awareness of Maryland's municipalities while providing a fun and educational adventure exploring our history via your smart phone or GPS. Geocachers can visit mdmunicipal.org/geocache to download an official passport and geocaching.com to access coordinates.

"Best Dressed Business Award"

Balbina Meyer, owner of Chez Nous, was excited to accept Leonardtown's 2012 "Best Dressed Business Award" from Mayor Burris. This award is given each year to a Leonardtown business for its charming holiday decorations. Chez Nous offers handcrafted one-of-a kind gemstone jewelry and chocolates and is located at 41685 Fenwick Street. The Town appreciates all the many Leonardtown businesses that decorated their storefronts during the holiday season!

Highlights

Leonardtown Remembers Capt. Walter Francis Duke

On June 6, 1944, ace Army pilot Capt. Walter Francis Duke of Leonardtown was shot down in combat over Burma in World War II. He was the #1 flying Ace of the 459th Squadron, but when he turned back to look for his wing man, was ambushed by Japanese planes. Capt. Duke's body was never found and he was declared MIA at the age of 22.

This past December, Capt. Duke's family was notified that a P-38 aircraft with numbers that matched his plane had been discovered and that the remains of his body may have been located in a jungle in the country known today as Myanmar. His family and friends are now expecting that his remains will be coming home soon. Walter was the son of Mayor Roland B. and Lillian Duke, also of Leonardtown.

During the Leonardtown Council meeting of February 11th, former Mayor Chip Norris and local historian Al Gough presented a slide presentation on Capt. Duke. During the presentation, commemorative coins honoring Capt. Duke were presented by Chip Forbes of C. Forbes, Inc. and Mr. Pete Wigginton. These coins will be available for purchase at the Town Hall beginning this summer. Also presented to the Town Council in honor of Captain Duke was a beautiful framed, signed print of the U.S. National World War II Memorial for display in the Town Hall.

Several friends and family members, along with the Leonardtown Town Council, also petitioned the School Board to name the new elementary school in Leonardtown for Capt. Duke. On April 10, 2013 the decision was made to do just that.

Visit the Leonardtown website at leonardtown.smd.com to view the documentary video about Capt. Walter Francis Duke.

A New Directory Sign for Leonardtown

The Leonardtown Business Association proudly unveiled a new Directory Sign showing historic downtown Leonardtown and surrounding boundaries of the town during the First Friday celebration on April 5th. The new directory sign further strengthens Leonardtown as "A Most Convenient Place", as it helps residents and visitors discover arts and entertainment venues, dining establishments, shopping historic sites, and many private/professional services and facilities that are available throughout the town. It is the LBA's goal that the directory sign will assist you in finding your way by quickly locating or seeking out your places of need or interest. Look for the new directory sign situated in the grassy area on Washington Street next to Jeannies Flowers. The organization plans additional signs throughout the town in the future. Contact the LBA if you wish to be included on future revisions to the sign.

The Town applauds its residents and customers for their recycling awareness! Goode Trash Removal continues to see Leonardtown's recycling efforts climb.

Important Water Meter Information

Do you know where your water meter is located? If you live in a single family residence, your water meter is most likely located in a metal vault near your property line. It may have either a plastic or metal lid. Please take a moment to find it. The Town needs your help to keep this meter vault free of obstructions. Each quarter, your water meter is read using an automatic meter reading system. Town personnel drive by your residence and electronically capture the meter reading using radio frequencies. If your meter vault is covered by bushes, grass, rocks, etc., it is very difficult for the signal to reach the vehicle. If we are unable to capture the electronic reading, your meter is read manually. This does require extra time, but most importantly, a manual reading cannot tell us if there is a water leak on your property. Every quarter, customers experience water leaks. Timely detection and repair will minimize the financial impact to you.

If your meter vault has a metal lid, it may be soon replaced with a plastic lid. A plastic lid improves the chances that town personnel can capture the reading on the first pass by your property. It is much easier for the signal to pass through plastic than metal. If your meter vault is in your driveway, the plastic lid will be strong enough to drive on.

The Town appreciates your cooperation in keeping your meter vault and lid clear of obstructions. As the weather warms, please take a moment to ensure it is easily accessible.

Conserve water! You can easily reduce water usage by making simple changes in your daily routines.

with a unique Quonset-hut design was designed and constructed on "Clark's Rest" with a double four milking parlor and glazed block. Several barns were added to shelter the cattle, large silos were erected to store the crops of corn, hay, sorghum and small grains harvested on the farm, and essential farm machinery such as combines and tractors emerged. Twice a day, morning and noon, 80-100 head of Holstein dairy cattle were milked. Schools even made arrangements for their students to tour the milking facilities both on "Clarks' Rest" and the dairy operation on Pope Street. In 1973 the dairy business closed due to economics and competition of big dairy businesses. The herd of Holstein dairy cattle was sold in 1968 and replaced by Black Angus beef cattle that were brought in and raised on the farm until 2000. Ultimately, the milking parlor was converted to a butchering locker for the hogs. The Leonardtown Dairy was the last independent dairy in the State of Maryland.

In 1968 a new era of activity commenced on "Clark's Rest" when George Clark began breeding and raising thoroughbred race horses. Stables were built for the horses and a successful breeding, training and racing career ensued. Townspeople typically commented how they marveled at seeing the horses and yearlings running and playing in the open fields. Many may still recall such favorites as Miss

Miss Leonardtown, 1968

Leonardtown, Leonardtown Queen, Fun-N-Fancy and Son of Fancy. This venture reached its peak when Son of Fancy won the Senatorial Sweepstakes at Pimlico in 1973. Horses continued to graze the pastures of "Clark's Rest" until George Clark's death in 2003.

In addition to the enterprise of dairy cattle, beef cattle and racing horses, this viable working farm also raised hogs and chickens. Depending upon the season, fields of tobacco, vegetable gardens and fruit trees all needed to be planted and harvested and the grass had to be mowed. Then there were the day-to-day tasks, such as housework, meals to prepare, school work, and taking care of pet dogs and cats. The family of nine children learned fast, worked hard, played hard, laughed and cried. The family home no longer exists, but memories of days on the farm at "Clark's Rest" will endure a lifetime.

This opulent property will now provide new homes for new families. The developer, Marrick Homes will model the neo-traditional neighborhood within the guidelines of Leonardtown's "Smart Growth" initiative. Homes and townhouses will possess architectural character, typify clearly designed streetscapes and grid patterns, demonstrate a sense of community, and be pedestrian-friendly. Connectivity and access will be accomplished by roads linking Hollywood-Leonardtown Road through the Leonard's Grant development and connecting to the Clark's Rest development back out to Point Lookout Road. This connection will continue through the proposed Tudor Hall Village development back into the Town Square. Town officials are confident that the new "Clark's Rest" development will enhance our community while at the same time, maintain Leonardtown's rich heritage and culture. With street names such as Clarks Rest Road, Chestnut Hill Lane and Dairy Barn Drive planned for the new neighborhood, there will always be a story of days gone by.

Sorghum grew high on the Clark Farm, a bit tall for youngsters Dan and Barbara Clark.

Holstein dairy cows were often seen herding amongst the farm land.

Mementos from the Leonardtown Dairy: milk bottle cap and pricelist (top of page), milking can with milk bottle, orange juice drink carton and milk carton encouraging all to buy local.
